

Congratulations

This is most kind of you, and your Company, Bhupesh. You took care of every single detail, did a personalized follow-up, and fully meet-up to your commitments. I truly appreciate it, and thank you for that. It was a positive experience joining this study, and will recommend your services in the future.

PARTICIPANT FEEDBACK

Radma Research after a successful pilot project, was entrusted with recruiting 115+ primary and secondary school teachers in 28 European countries in just 4 weeks' time to participate in an online community discussion lasting 8 days. This discussion was to facilitate creation of new learning materials for students and teachers and hence, was an extremely crucial endeavour. With non-conventional project management approach combined with out of the box solutioning by team members, Radma Research was able to cut through the hard targets much to the client delight. The teachers were excited to be participating in such a community as they shared their teaching experiences of using the existing classroom materials as well as their ideas and opinions around the developments needed for creation of new learning materials.

For me personally Holi is smashing colors on my friends till they are unrecognizable, and this elevates everyone's mood as well. Dance and partying like there's no tomorrow, and then go to work with pinkish faces to show others we played the best Holi ever.

I have a bittersweet Holi story from 2019 - my sister came back after 3 years for her engagement, but it was the last Holi I celebrated with my siblings as my twin brother left for Canada.

Holi always reminds me of my grandmother's stories from childhood till I got married, but now I celebrate it with my family and friends with lots of colours, Thandai, Colgappas and Gujiyas. We also never miss the biggest procession of colours in the air called Rangpanchmi in Indore, where we have endless fun with friends.
